SPLAB!, along with the Richard Hugo House, Poets & Writers and the Washington Poets Association, is proud to announce upcoming dates in the Red Sky Poetry Theater Reunion series,

In addition to José Kozer's reading, he will facilitate a workshop from 1 to 5 pm on the day of his reading. More information about the workshop is at http://www.globalvoicesradio.org/Jose_Kozer_Workshop.htm.

For 25 years, Red Sky was the longest continuously-running poetry open mic on the West Coast. It ended in 2005, but a successful reunion was staged on December 14, 2007. One person said, "There are a lot of open mics in Seattle, but Red Sky is a poetry reading."
